MERCAT CROSS

List 6	Shaft topped by a rare wooden cross. Ref: Small, Scottish Market Crosses, plate 29. A.
Glenfield Ramblers, I, 1894, p.70	"It is said that the present wooden cross was erected quietly one night about 30 years ago, when the Princess Mary of Cambridge was on a visit to Eglinton".
TT, F 17.12.1897, 3c	Police Commissioners have agreed to a new shaft. Stated during the meeting that the present wooden cross was put up about 40 years ago.
Small 1900	Exhibits, particularly in the upper part, the characteristics of an ancient cross. It stands on the edge of a raised footpath in the main street of Kilwinning. The under part to the iron band seems modern - it, at least, has been cemented over. The main shaft is octagonal in section, its base set in the iron band referred to. The capital consists of carved heads and foliate of the late gothic period, and takes the form of the shaft. Upon this rests a weatherworn cross in wood.
Ness, Landmarkis	Repaired in 1956, shortly before visit of Elizabeth II, M Palmer Bros.
Lauchlan, OK, 16	New, 1997, Mercat Cross is by Ian Cooper, IDC Artist-in-Residence.

MOTHER LODGE [1]

AA 13.7.1893	Old Masonic Lodge being pulled down - rebuilt in 1779 by David Muir, builder, Irvine. In its place is to be put up a fine Gateway leading to the Parish Church and a wall with ornamental railings between the main street and the churchyard.
TH, F 29.12.1893, 5d	Last meeting here was 6th July 1893.

MOTHER LODGE [2], 99 Main Street

AA 27.12.1883	The plans of the proposed new hall were submitted by the joint architects, Brothers [John?] Armour and Wilson. It is intended to be a 2 storey edifice of Gothic design.
Ness, Antient, 80	Designs of J. B. Wilson; John Armour, resident architect. McLaughlan & Son, masons; Thomas Armour, wright.
AA 22.9.1892	New Masonic Hall - memorial stone laid last Saturday. Main Street. The style adopted by Mr John B Wilson ARIBA, Glasgow, the designer, is that of the Scottish Renaissance and, while not elaborate, should form a noticeable feature in the town. An arched doorway forming the main entrance occupies one side of the frontage, and in the centre is a double window lighting the main committee room. Over the ground floor, moulded trusses of bold projection carry a stone balcony and balustrade, which run along the whole frontage and also carry a projecting 5-light oriel, which forms a main feature of the front. Above this there is a steep pitched gable with moulded crowsteps, and across the gable will be carved a broad sculpted band bearing the words 'MOTHER LODGE' on a background of thistle enrichment. The gable terminates with a moulded pediment, under which is a carved panel bearing the arms of the lodge, and will be surmounted by a carved thistle finial. The front is built of red sandstone from Montgomery Quarry. Mr John Armour, junior, Irvine is the resident architect. The foundation stone of the old hall was laid in 1779.
AA 5.10.1893	Consecrated last Saturday.
TH, F 29.12.1893, 5d	Used for the first time Thursday last week (St Thomas's Day) [21st December 1893]
Ness, Antient, 85	extension begun in February 1972, with completion due October 1973.
ex inf, Sheena Andrew	Extension, nd, by Robert Allan, Ayr.
