AA 3.7.1902	Marble tablet on Burns' and Jean Armour's first home unveiled last Saturday. Mr Mossman, sculptor, Glasgow.
SN&Q, s2, v4, August 1902, 19	"Amongst the many places in and around Mauchline associated with Burns ... the old house in Castle Street stands out prominently to the front. The members of the Glasgow Rosebery Burns Club conceived the idea of marking this house by the erection of a marble slab: and on Saturday the 28th June Mrs Marshall, wife of ex-Provost Marshall unveiled it, shewing the inscription:- Here Burns and Jean Armour began housekeeping in 1788. Erected by Rosebery Burns Club, Glasgow, 1902. Miss Miller, postmistress, Mauchline, proprietrix of the building, permitted the tablet".

BI 26/302 May 1915 Regarding the contemplated repairs to Burns's house at Mauchline, recommendations as to the Burns Room being furnished as nearly as it would be in Burns' time, and the adjacent room being set apart as a museum of relics or Burns souvenirs, have been approved. Mr Ninian C Macwhannel, architect, states that the building is in a much better condition, particularly as regards the woodwork, than might have been anticipated and the whole repairs will, he hopes, be finished by the end of May.
